Dedication

Dan Olesevich
August 16, 1937 — July 15, 1983

The Red Wings dedicate this 1983-84 yearbook in memory of Dan Olesevich, the team's longtime equipment manager who died in an automobile accident last July.

His nickname was "Ole" (O-lee) and he had a legion of friends in and out of hockey. We miss the exceptional talent and enthusiasm he brought to his job during nearly 25 years with the organization, but we feel an even greater void in the loss of his cheery presence.

A person always smiled when "Ole" was around because he always was bubbling. He relished all that is good and decent in life, and he radiated this joy to those around him.

"Ole" was a loving and devoted husband to his wife, Gay, and a kind and gentle father to their children, Mark and Kristine. He fulfilled a dream by owning a farm in Harrow, Ontario, where he raised standardbred horses. He loved his job, and he loved the Red Wings. He remained calm amid pressure, never displayed anger and was helpful to all.

"Ole" was our friend, and for that we're thankful. His friendship enriched our lives and made each of us a better person.

MIKE ILITCH

OWNER

Mike Ilitch has brought dynamic leadership and stability to the Red Wings in his quest to return the franchise to the upper echelon of the National Hockey League.

After purchasing the team from Bruce A. Norris in June of 1982, Ilitch said, "I think this is the best franchise in the world. It's a sleeping giant waiting for someone to do something with it."

The Red Wings' owner and president has laid a firm foundation by assembling a solid organization to implement his rebuilding plan. It is a carefully drawn plan that will require patience, but Ilitch is confident it will produce a winner.

Indeed, in any endeavor, Ilitch has a reputation for producing winners. In the 1950s, the native Detroiter was a door-to-door awning salesman and also sold pots and pans and china. But he had a special recipe for pizza and the desire to open a fast-food store, despite some detractors who said there was no future in such an idea. Undaunted, Mike and wife Marian saved enough money and in 1959 established the first Little Caesars store in Garden City.

Hard work and ingenuity have expanded the Little Caesars chain to more than 400 stores in 20 states and Canada. In addition, the Ilitch family owns 11 Wendy's restaurants and holds the midwest franchise rights to Chuck E. Cheese restaurants. In January of 1983, Ilitch purchased from Bruce Norris the assets and rights to Joe Louis Arena, Cobo Arena, the Glens Falls (N.Y.) Civic Center and the Peoria (Ill.) Civic Center.

Ilitch's interest in sports goes back to his boyhood on the west side of Detroit, where he played all sports and earned All-City honors in baseball at Cooley High School in 1947. He turned down an offer to play for the Detroit Tigers and opted to join the Marine Corps, in which he also played baseball for four years. After his discharge, Ilitch signed with the Tigers and played three seasons in the team's minor league system. An injury and competition at shortstop from a fellow named Harvey Kuenn ended Ilitch's baseball career. He briefly attended the University of Tampa before returning to Detroit to embark on his career as a salesman and eventually to his status as the first fast-food franchiser in Michigan.

Ilitch has sponsored hundreds of sports teams throughout the years, including hockey, pro and amateur softball, baseball, bowling and soccer. He also is deeply committed to the metropolitan Detroit area and donates time and financial support to several charities and organizations.

Mike and Marian Ilitch, the Red Wings' secretary-treasurer, live in suburban Detroit and have seven children, including one who works for the team. Denise Ilitch-Lites and her husband, Jim, are the club's general counsels. The other children are Ron, Mike Jr., Lisa, Atanas, Christopher and Carole.

JIM DEVELLANO

General Manager

It's easy to talk about patience, often difficult to practice it. Jim Devellano, however, has practiced what he's preached since becoming general manager of the Red Wings on July 12, 1982.

Eschewing the "quick fix," Devellano won't mortgage the club's future by trading valuable draft choices to gain temporary results. Last June, he conducted his first draft as G.M. of the Red Wings and landed some top prospects. In addition, since taking the job, he's made some shrewd trades and acquisitions to improve the club without compromising his principles.

Devellano strongly believes that successful hockey clubs are built through the draft. This view is rooted in his past experience as a scout and assistant general manager, and it's been strengthened by the fact that the top teams in the National Hockey League were constructed through that process.

Devellano, who never played professional hockey, began his scouting career in 1967 with the St. Louis Blues, who were founded that year as the NHL expanded from six to 12 teams. With Devellano's help, the Blues were the cream of the expansion franchise and reached the Stanley Cup final in each of their first three seasons.

In 1972, another team was born, the New York Islanders, and Devellano was hired as a scout by General Manager Bill Torrey. It was with the Islanders that Devellano witnessed how patience and astute drafting can build a dynasty. The Islanders won only 12 games the first season and just 19 the second, but they haven't missed the playoffs since and have won the Stanley Cup four consecutive times.

Devellano was instrumental in that success, scouting and recommending such draft picks as Bryan Trottier and Mike Bossy, to name just two, who helped make the Islanders one of hockey's all-time great teams. When Torrey was looking for a coach in 1973, Devellano recommended Al Arbour, who proved to be a brilliant choice.

Before the 1979-80 season, Devellano was named general manager of the Indianapolis Checkers, the Islanders' affiliate in the Central Hockey League. He sparkled immediately in that position and was named Minor League Executive of the Year by The Hockey News. He returned to New York in 1981 and spent a year as the Islanders' assistant general manager before taking the Red Wings' top job after Mike Ilitch purchased the team.

Devellano, 40, is a native of Toronto and is known to most hockey people as "Jimmy D." He is single and resides in Detroit.

NICK POLANO

Asst. General Manager and Head Coach

Although the Red Wings didn't make the playoffs last season, the team drew raves from Detroit fans, plus rival coaches and players, for constantly giving a strong effort. The Red Wings weren't a soft touch anymore. The team that used to fold after falling behind in games was rallying from three-goal deficits to win or tie. The team that used to wilt in the third period was playing a full game of hustling hockey. The team that used to make postseason vacation plans in February was in the playoff race until late March.

The main motivator behind this revival is Coach Nick Polano, who also is the team's assistant general manager. Polano has installed a disciplined style of play which stresses forechecking and tenacious work along the boards in both ends of the rink. He won't deviate from his system in molding the Red Wings into a playoff contender.

Polano, 42, signed a three-year contract to coach the Red Wings on Aug. 4, 1982. The native of Copper Cliff, Ontario, a suburb of Sudbury, had spent the 1981-82 season as an assistant to Buffalo Sabres Coach Scotty Bowman.

Polano began his coaching career in 1975-76 at Erie in the old North American Hockey League. He left that post after the '76-'77 season for a coaching job in the International Hockey League at Dayton (the franchise moved to Grand Rapids midway through the '77-'78 campaign). In 1978-79, Polano returned to Erie — which had shifted to the Eastern Hockey League — and handled the dual role of general manager-coach for three seasons. Those were his most successful years as Erie won three regular-season and playoff championships. He twice was named EHL Coach of the Year in that span, and The Hockey News selected him Minor League Executive of the Year in 1981. The following season, Polano joined Bowman's staff in Buffalo.

Polano never played in the National Hockey League but did perform for the Hamilton junior team that had a working agreement with the Red Wings. His next 15 years were spent as a hard-nosed defenseman with such clubs as Baltimore, Hershey and Providence in the American Hockey League and the Philadelphia Blazers in the defunct World Hockey Association. He retired as a player in 1974.

Nick and wife Elva have a daughter, Jodi, and a son, Michael, and reside in suburban Detroit.

DAN BELISLE

Assistant Coach

Dan Belisle, who has been associated with professional hockey for more than 25 years as a player and coach, brought a wealth of savvy to his job as assistant coach of the Red Wings when he joined Coach Nick Polano last season.

Belisle's first NHL coaching experience was in 1978-79, when he held the top job in Washington. Belisle led the Capitals to a 15-point improvement over the previous season, but when the club faltered early in the 79-80 campaign, he was replaced by Gary Green.

Belisle became coach and general manager of Dallas in 1980-81 and was named Coach of the Year in the Central Hockey League after guiding the club to the regular-season championship — the fourth time he was accorded top coaching honors in the minor leagues. He remained in Dallas until being summoned to Detroit by Polano.

Belisle spent virtually all of his 15-year playing career in the minor leagues, except for a four-game stint with the New York Rangers midway through the 60-61 season. A right wing, he retired as a player following the 70-71 season after having scored 363 goals for several minor league clubs.

Belisle began his coaching career in 72-73 with Des Moines of the International Hockey League and led the team to the championship in the second of his three seasons there. He went to Syracuse of the North American Hockey League in 75-76 and won the regular-season and playoff titles in his second season. After a season as coach of Philadelphia in the American Hockey League in 77-78, he moved up to the NHL in Washington.

Belisle, 46, is a native of South Porcupine, Ontario. Dan and wife Carol have three children, Debra, Danny and Dee, and reside in Windsor during the season.

DAVE DRYDEN

Goaltending Consultant

Goaltending Consultant Dave Dryden will be a valuable ally of netminders in the Detroit organization as they journey through the peaks and valleys of their profession.

Dryden, a former NHL goalie who assumed the newly created position last June 24, is working with goaltenders in Detroit and at the Red Wings' Adirondack affiliate in the American Hockey League. In addition, he is assisting junior goalies who are Detroit property and scouting netminders who are potential acquisitions via either the draft or trade.

Dryden works for the club on a part-time basis. For instance, if a goaltender is having troubles, Dryden will analyze the situation in person or assess the problem by viewing a videotape. He is an expert on the art of goaltending and has authored a book on the subject.

Dryden, 42, is a native of Hamilton, Ontario, and the elder brother of NHL Hall of Fame goalie Ken Dryden. Dave spent parts of nine seasons in the NHL with the New York Rangers, Chicago, Buffalo and Edmonton, recording a 3.19 goals-against average and nine shutouts in 203 games. He also played five seasons in the World Hockey Association for Chicago and Edmonton, switching with the Oilers to the NHL in his final season, 1979-80. In 242 WHA outings, he had a 3.51 goals-against mark and eight shutouts. Dryden coached the Peterborough Petes of the Ontario Hockey League in 1981-82.

Dave teaches at Lyndewood High School in the Toronto suburb of Mississauga and resides in Oakville, Ontario, with his wife, Sandra, and their two children, Greg and Debbie.

TRAINING STAFF

JIM PENGELLY

BERT GODIN

Excellence and experience are the hallmarks of the Red Wings' training and equipment staff.

Athletic Therapist Jim Pengelly, in his second season with the club, introduced many innovative training methods which reduced the occurrence of injuries and increased the team's endurance. His fitness plan treats players individually, with each using a different program to stay in shape, and he makes certain the players maintain proper eating habits. Pengelly, a native of Buffalo and a graduate of Ohio State University, came to the Red Wings after serving four years as athletic therapist of the Buffalo Stallions of the Major Indoor Soccer League. Jim and wife Sue have a daughter, Robyn, and reside in suburban Detroit.

The Red Wings' new equipment manager is Bert Godin, who procures and maintains the team's gear home and away, keeping tabs on some 5,000 pieces of equipment. Godin worked last season for the Maine Mariners of the American Hockey League. He had spent the 1981-82 season with the Flint Generals of the International Hockey League after working two seasons for the Hampton Aces of the Eastern Hockey League. Bert is a native of Lewiston, Maine, and a graduate of New England College in Henniker, N. H. He and wife Brenda live in a Detroit suburb.

A valuable man in the dressing room is Steve Latin, in his second season with the Red Wings as assistant to the equipment manager. Latin performs a myriad of tasks to keep things running smoothly. Steve, a native of Detroit, is single.

RED WINGS ON THE AIR

Knowledge and enthusiasm equal excitement for those who tune in Bruce Martyn and Sid Abel, in their eighth season together describing Red Wings action on radio and television. The flagship stations again this season are WJR-Radio (760) and WKBD-TV (Channel 50).

Martyn, the play-by-play announcer, has been in the Red Wings' broadcast booth since the 1964-65 season. A native of Sault Ste. Marie, Michigan, Bruce began his radio career at WSOO in his hometown, then came to Detroit station WCAR in the 1950's. He shifted to WKBD when it began operations in 1962 and also did some freelance announcing before joining the Red Wings. Away from the booth, Martyn is a manufacturer's representative in the automotive field for Ted Harris Associates of Dearborn. Bruce and wife Donna have three grown sons and reside in suburban Detroit.

Abel, a member of the NHL Hall of Fame, has been the color commentator since the 1976-77 season and also has served the Red Wings as a player, coach and general manager. Sid joined the Red Wings in the '38-'39 season and spent nine full seasons and parts of three others in a Detroit uniform, departing after the '51-'52 season to become player-coach in Chicago. He retired as a player after the '52-'53 season with 189 goals and 283 assists in 612 games, then left the Chicago coaching job following the '53-'54 season.

Abel took over behind the Detroit bench midway through the 1957-58 season and assumed the dual role of general manager-coach in 1962. He coached the Red Wings for 10 full seasons and portions of two others, compiling a record of 340-338-132 in 810 games. He also was general manager and had coaching stints with the St. Louis Blues and now-defunct Kansas City Scouts. In 963 games as an NHL coach — fifth on the all-time list — Abel's teams had a record of 382-426-155. Sid and wife Gloria have a grown son and daughter and live in suburban Detroit. Their son, Gerry, played for the Red Wings in the 1966-67 season.

In his fourth season as producer of the Red Wings' televised games is Toby Cunningham, a veteran of WKBD who also is responsible for pregam and between-period features.

All the Red Wings' regular-season games are on radio, and 15 contests are being televised (see team schedule on page 160). Several cable systems in Michigan and surrounding states televise Red Wings games; following are the stations in the team's radio network:

WJR-AM (760), Detroit
WBCM-AM (1440), Bay City
WNBY-AM (1450), Newberry
WCCY-AM (1400), Houghton
WLXX-FM (99), Sault Ste. Marie

RED WINGS' HISTORY

When Mike Ilitch purchased the Red Wings from Bruce A. Norris on June 22, 1982, he took over a franchise with a legacy of greatness in the National Hockey League.

The story of professional hockey in Detroit officially began Sept. 25, 1926, when a group of local businessmen purchased an NHL franchise and imported the Victoria Cougars team of the Western Canada League to represent the Motor City.

Although called the Detroit Cougars, the new club didn't have a home in the city that first season. Construction of Olympia Stadium had just begun and the team played its home games across the river at Border Cities Arena in Windsor.

The Cougars played their first NHL game Nov. 18, 1926, and lost to the Boston Bruins, 2-0. Playing 44 games that season, the Cougars finished in last place with a record of 12-28-4.

Things began to look up the following season. Jack Adams replaced Art Duncan as general manager-coach and began a 35-year association with the club which made him a Detroit and NHL legend. In addition, the club no longer was homeless.

Olympia was completed and the Cougars played their first game in the stadium Nov. 22, 1927, against the defending champion Ottawa Senators. Detroit's Johnny Sheppard scored the first goal in the new building, but the Cougars were blanked the rest of the way and the Senators posted a 2-1 victory.

Detroit went on to a 19-19-6 record that season, but finished fourth and out of the playoffs. In their next two seasons, the Cougars finished third — making the playoffs for the first time — then slipped back to fourth place and out of postseason play.

In 1930, the team changed its name to the Falcons at the urging of Detroit media people who thought a new moniker might bring some luck. Alas, it didn't bring much as the club finished fourth and out of the playoffs in 1930-31 and third — although it earned a playoff berth with a sub-.500 record — in '31-'32.

In 1932, American industrialist James Norris purchased the Detroit club and renamed it Red Wings. He imported the new name from Montreal, where he had played hockey for a team called the Winged Wheelers in the Montreal Athletic Association. The team's insignia — a winged wheel — struck Norris as a natural for a club representing the Motor City. The emblem became an automobile tire with a flying wing attached and, except for some minor artistic variations, has remained the same.

It was under Norris that the franchise became one of the league's finest. The Red Wings won a league championship in his second season — the first of 13 regular-season titles. In 1935-36, they captured both the league crown and the Stanley Cup — the prized trophy the team has won a total of seven times.

One of the most amazing strings in NHL history was put together by the Red Wings between 1948-49 and 1954-55 when the club won a record seven consecutive league titles and brought home the Stanley Cup four times.

Over the years, some of the great names in hockey have been Red Wings. Thirty-eight people associated with the club are in the NHL Hall of Fame — such names as Gordie Howe, Jack Adams, Sid Abel, Ted Lindsay, Alex Delvecchio, Terry Sawchuk. . . . Red Wings have been voted to NHL All-Star teams more than 80 times, while Detroit players have earned nearly 40 individual league trophies.

Ownership of the Red Wings remained in the Norris family for 50 years. The elder Norris served as club president until his death in 1952 and was succeeded by his daughter, Marguerite Norris Riker. In 1955, Norris' son, Bruce, took over as club president and held that post until selling the team to Mike Ilitch in 1982.

SCHEDULE

Each of the 21 teams will play an 80-game schedule, with those teams in the Smythe, Norris and Adams divisions having eight games (four home, four away) against each of their divisional opponents, plus three games against each of the remaining 16 teams in the League. In the case of the three games against the remaining clubs, teams will play two home, one away or vice-versa, alternating the extra home game each year.

The six clubs in the Patrick Division — New Jersey, New York Islanders, New York Rangers, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Washington — will play each other seven times, with three games against each of the remaining 15 teams. The home-ice differential will be alternated each season.

STANLEY CUP PLAYOFFS

At the conclusion of the regular schedule, the top four finishers in each of the divisions will qualify for the Stanley Cup playoffs.

The division semifinals will have the first-place club oppose the fourth-place team and the second versus the third in best-of-five series. The winners of each series will play a best-of-seven division final series, with the team gaining higher standing during the regular season holding home-ice advantage.

The four divisional winners will meet in the best-of-seven Conference Championship series. The Smythe Division winner will face the Norris Division champion, while the Patrick Division victor will oppose the Adams Division winner. The conference winners will meet in a best-of-seven final series for the Stanley Cup.

Home-ice advantage for the semifinal and final rounds will be alternated each season according to division and conference. The Patrick and Norris divisions, along with the Wales Conference, will have the advantage in 1984.
